Result of examination:

The K1 revolver was test fired in the Laboratory and functioned normally. The test firing determined that the K1 revolver is rifled with five grooves, right twist. The land and groove widths of the rifling in the barrel of specimen K1 were measured to be approximately .100 inch and .115 inch, respectively.

The Laboratory is unaware of any shooting cases in the Chicago area with which specimen K1 could be logically compared. Test bullets and cartridge cases obtained from specimen K1 have been placed in the Laboratory's Reference Fired Specimen File (RFSF) where they will be available for any future comparisons desired.

Human blood, insufficient in quantity for conclusive grouping purposes, was identified on specimen K1.

The results of the requested latent fingerprint examination of specimen K1 are being reported separately.

Specimen K1 is being returned to your department under separate cover by registered mail.

Date of transcription 1/28/80

[redacted] Burbank, Illinois, was advised of the identity of Special Agent (SA) [redacted] and that the purpose of the interview was to review the statements he previously made to Chicago Police Department Investigators regarding observations he made during the night of January 1, 1978, at the vicinity of 6239 Archer Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

[redacted] stated that as a security guard employed by the Industrial Patrol Service Corporation, 4430 West North Avenue, Chicago, Illinois, he was assigned to Provide Security Services at a construction site immediately adjacent to a Jewel Food Store on the 6200 block of Archer Avenue, from 4:00 p.m., to midnight on January 1, 1978.

Upon arriving at the construction site, [redacted] advised that he elected to remain in his car because of the bitter cold weather. He further advised that he parked his automobile, a yellow 1976 two-door Chevette, east bound on Archer Avenue directly in front of the construction site. [redacted] added that the construction site was immediately west of the Jewel Store.

Approximately two hours after sunset, [redacted] stated that he noticed a silver colored late model Ford Sedan bearing Illinois license plate PG 844 driving up and down the sidestreets in the vicinity of the Jewel Food Store.

Thinking that this automobile was a "spotter" for Industrial Patrol Service Corporation, [redacted] decided to focus his attention on the movements of the silver Ford.

Shortly afterward, [redacted] stated that the silver Ford then parked west bound on Archer Avenue-several car lengths west of his parked Chevette. He further advised that the silver Ford remained parked at the above location for approximately twenty minutes whereupon the vehicle departed and commenced again to drive up and down the surrounding side streets.

He was then asked if he observed the occupant or occupants in the silver Ford. [] stated that due to the darkness and dirty/frosted windows on both his vehicle and the silver Ford's, he was only able to get a less than ideal view of inside the silver Ford. [] then advised that he could only recall observing the driver of the silver Ford when it was parked west bound on Archer Avenue for approximately twenty minutes.

[] then provided the following description of the driver:

Sex	Male
Race	White
Age	Mid-[]
Height	Either short or sat slouched in front seat
Hair	Presume brown; sideburns
Attire	Dark clothing, beige collar
Miscellaneous	Full face; predominant cheek bones.

Upon citing the silver Ford again driving up and down the surrounding side streets, [] stated that he became concerned that the occupant of the vehicle was intending on perpetrating a crime at a nearby business establishment rather than being a spotter for Industrial Patrol Service Corporation.

Approximately 45 minutes after last observing the silver Ford in the area, [] stated that he flagged down a passing Chicago Police car and expressed his concern to police officers regarding the activities of the silver Ford. [] added that he reported the license number of the silver Ford to the police officers.

[] Shortly after reporting this incident to the police, [] stated he terminated his security assignment at the construction site and departed the area.

[] was then asked if he had retained notes which could document his recording of the license number of the silver Ford on the night he made his observations. He stated that since this vehicle was observed for a long period of time, he readily memorized the license number-and in fact, recalls this license plate number to this day.

[redacted] stated that none of the individuals appearing in the above photographs were identical to the occupant of the aforementioned silver Ford. [redacted] further advised that upon reviewing photograph number 5, he stated that the facial characteristics of this individual were similar to the occupant of the silver Ford. Upon reviewing photograph number 10, [redacted] stated that this individual's hair, sideburns and facial characteristics were also similar to the occupant of the silver Ford. [redacted] added however, that the occupant of the silver Ford had a full face very similar to the individual in photograph number 5.

Re: Ronald W. Jarrett, et al

Dear Mr. [redacted]

This is to confirm the results of a March 20, 1980, conference regarding captioned investigation in which you, Strike Force Attorney (SFA) [redacted] Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) Special Agents (SAs) [redacted] and [redacted] were in attendance.

As you and SFA [redacted] will recall, the following points of discussion were covered during the course of the conference:

1. SFA [redacted] will prepare a prosecutive memorandum to secure Department of Justice approval to obtain an indictment on Ronald W. Jarrett for a Hobbs Act - Armed Robbery violation. This memorandum will be prepared within seven (7) days upon receipt of appropriate reports, etc., furnished by the FBI.

2. RICO - Armed Robbery prosecution on Ronald W. Jarrett appears to be unlikely unless investigation into the criminal activities of Jarrett produces additional evidence of prosecutable merit.

3. The FBI should continue efforts to develop a prosecutable RICO - Armed Robbery case on the criminal activities on [redacted] based upon statements furnished by witnesses [redacted]. However, as a matter of prioritizing prosecutive efforts, SFA [redacted] will immediately center her efforts upon Jarett's Hobbs Act - Armed Robbery prosecution.

4. The Strike Force Attorney's Office will aggressively protect the interests of witness [redacted] in his upcoming prosecutions with the Cook County States Attorney.

SA [redacted] will arrange a meeting with appropriate officials of the Cook County States Attorney's Office, officers of the Chicago Police Department Central Investigations Unit (CIU), FBI Special Agents and the Chicago Strike Force Attorney's Office in this regard.

[redacted] was located at his residence, [redacted] Harvey, Illinois, and was advised of the identity of the interviewing Agent and that the interview was to concern his knowledge of an Armed Robbery at the Charles Stevens Record Company (CSRC) sometime in the early 1970's. [redacted] then provided the following information:

He advised that the Armed Robbery took place on an exact date unknown, but believes that it was February 19-20-21 or February 22, 1973, based on information which he had on a personal calendar. He advised that he is 90% sure that it was on a Monday, February 19, 1973, and advised that on the date of the robbery, at approximately 11:00 PM, he had loaded a truck at the loading dock of the CSRC where he was an employee and had pulled the loaded truck away from the loading dock area and had parked it in a parking area, and had proceeded back into the shop to pick-up one box of records which he had forgotten to load on the truck. He advised that he carried the box of records out and placed it on the back end of the truck and suddenly two men appeared and one of the men put something in the back of his head which he felt and the second man had a tire iron in his hands. He advised that the individuals asked where the other guy was, and he stated that he was alone. [redacted] then stated that they told him that he was lying, and he said, "No, the others were fired last week". [redacted] advised that the two individuals then escorted him inside the building and asked where the good records and tapes were and he said, "Thats all been loaded on the truck". He advised that only "cut outs" and "out of date" records were remaining in the shop. He advised that the individuals took him into a hardware cloth or fence type cage in the warehouse where records were usually stored and had him lie on the floor and they taped his hands with masking tape. He advised the individuals then started loading boxes of tapes on the loading dock conveyor, and also took tools and tried to break into the company safe. He advised that they must have had some form of walkie talkies because he heard one say on what he believed was the radio to another individual

"It's okay to come in". He advised that he heard a truck back into the loading dock and then another individual arrived and said, "We don't want any of that stuff." He advised that the individuals told him not to move and they got into the truck and took off.

[] advised that his relief man apparently did not have a key and he realized that he would be coming to work so after a reasonable time when after he had yelled for the individual and received no answer, he freed himself of the tape. He then advised that he tried to call the store owner and got no answer. He advised that the number he had tried to call had been an incorrect number, and so he called his manager, [] and stated that he was told to call the police. He advised that he called the police department and his brother-in-law at that time. He stated then that the outside bell rang and he went there and found it was his next shift man, [] and he told [] what was going on and stated that he had just been stuck up. He stated that [] did not believe him initially and then when the police department arrived, [] believed his story.

[] advised that evidence technicians from Chicago Police Department arrived and picked up the tape which he had broken off and took the tools which had been used to try and break open the safe, and examined the entire area for fingerprints. [] advised he was not aware of the outcome of their investigation. He advised that [] a mechanic for the firm came to work and was advised of the problem and that his brother-in-law came in and they finished loading and other drivers came to work and made their normal deliveries.

[] advised that he could provide no additional information concerning this event and did not believe that he would be able to identify any of the participants in the robbery. He advised that he had no suspects; however, he believed that there had been a robbery of another record and tape business sometime prior to his experience, and believed that the same individuals might have participated in both.

Thieves lift, use list of secret cop vehicles

By Bob Wiedrich

CHICAGO POLICE are investigating the leak of a secret roster of undercover squad cars to professional criminals last year from a South Side police motor maintenance garage.

Capt. John Rafter, police internal affairs division [IAD] director, confirmed that his men have been investigating the secrecy breach since a copy of the list was found in the possession of a known burglar last Dec. 1:

Rafter disclosed the investigation has narrowed to 3 of the 100 employees in the police garage at 51st Street and Wentworth Avenue because they had easy access to three master copies of the roster kept on file there.

Two of the three are 1st Ward residents. One is a cousin of a prominent 1st Ward politician.

vision, under which the garages operate, has been under investigation by a federal grand jury since last year for possible fraud and corruption.

In addition, a county grand jury is investigating charges by former Deputy Police Supt. James Zurawski that he was demoted last April 15 for having fought to destroy control of the division by the hoodlum-dominated 1st Ward Organization, whose president is Ald. Fred Roti.

"I have no doubt that that list was made down at the motor maintenance garage on 51st Street," Rafter said.

Thieves use secret police list

The list included the state license plate numbers, manufacturer, and model year of 200 undercover cars used for surveillance and other sensitive work by various units of the Chicago Police Department.

That meant that burglars, bank robbers, cartage thieves, crime syndicate hoodlums, and any other criminals to whom the data may have been furnished became aware of the specific identification of every unmarked squad car or other vehicle used to track them down.

BY NUMERICAL groupings, the list identified vehicles used by the Police Intelligence Division, the Central Investigation Unit [CIU], and the Vice Control Division, which included the gambling, prostitution, and narcotic units at the time.

"These [license plate numbers] came off of an official list," after told Tribune reporter Philip Wattley. "We're sure of that. They weren't taken by some guy who was pumping gas at the garage."

Existence of the pirated list first came to light last Dec. 18, with the arrest of Samuel [Sammy] Bills, 35, by Northfield police.

Bills, an ex-convict with a record of 11 arrests, was found to have in his car a Xerox copy of the undercover vehicle roster, along with a police criminal information bulletin bearing his name and that of a burglar associate, Ronald [Ronnie] Jarrett.

THE BULLETIN warned police officers to be on the lookout for Bills, Jarrett, and several others in connection with a series of Chicago-area supermarket burglaries. The bulletin was dated last Sept. 18.

Investigators said the license plate list was recent enough that it included the identification of a Chicago police gang crimes unit vehicle which had been placed in service only a few days earlier.

Also found in Bills' car was a police radio scanner with two of its frequencies tuned to Chicago police wave lengths.

There also was a 1977 check stub issued by the Department of Streets and Sanitation.

The employe number of the check stub was traced to Bills and his home address in the 1st Ward.

NORTHFIELD POLICE at first were befuddled by the five pages of license plates numbers.

However, after they determined the license plates checked either to phony addresses or were not on file with the Illinois secretary of state, Northfield police figured out the auto tags must have been issued for undercover work by Chicago police.

Bob Wiedrich

Bob Wiedrich's column will resume in Wednesday's Perspective section.

Consequently, Chicago police were notified Dec. 24 of the recovery of the list. On Dec. 26, the list was turned over to former Deputy Police Supt. William Duffy, head of the bureau of inspectional services until he also was demoted April 15, by Supt. Richard Brzeczek. And soon thereafter, Rafter's IAD investigators began seeking to determine which motor maintenance division employes had access to the confidential license plate master lists.

SINCE THEN, the investigation has zeroed in on the three suspects who had the easiest access to the list.

Rafter has refused to identify the suspects, one of whom was arrested several years ago with Bills.

However, he did confirm that none of the three has been transferred to other duties, away from the garage where the undercover cars are regularly serviced.

Since discovery of the list in the hands of a known burglar, Rafter said the surveillance car list has been moved to safekeeping at Police Headquarters.

SOON AFTER the incident, Duffy recommended that the license plates for all 200 cars be replaced. That plan, however, was dropped after it was determined the cost would be prohibitive.

The security breach recalled a similar incident several years ago in which CIU investigators discovered several professional burglars had radios in their automobiles tuned to CIU frequencies and car-to-car transmissions.

One burglar admitted the confidential information had been obtained from a radio repairman employed at the 51st Street police garage.

That organized crime conduit to police information, however, was rendered useless last year with the adoption of radio scrambler devices to safeguard airborne conversations between investigators.

Police also were investigating an apparent link between Bills and Anthony [Tony] Catizone, a crime syndicate gambler. An invitation to a social affair in the 1st Ward bearing Catizone's name also was found in Bills' car.

Police secret-car list in mob hands

By Art Petacque

A highly secret list of license-plate numbers used on the Chicago Police Department's unmarked cars made its way into the hands of a Chicago crime syndicate "superboss," the Sun-Times has learned.

The confidential list of 200 plate numbers was given to Angelo "The Hook" LaPietra, No. 3 man in the syndicate and boss of day-to-day organized crime operations in Chicago and suburbs, informants have told police.

The secret list was found on Samuel R. Bills, 35, of 2631 S. Lowe, a master burglar and member of a politically active 11th Ward family, during his arrest Dec. 18. The pipeline between Bills and LaPietra, informants told police, was Ronald Jarrett, LaPietra's chauffeur and a top aide.

The list, which includes 100 plate numbers of undercover squad cars and another 100 of vans and other surveillance vehicles, was distributed to gangs of burglars, gamblers and loan sharks, many living in the 11th Ward, LaPietra's personal fiefdom, police were told.

POSSESSION OF the list of licenses for unmarked police cars was considered a boon for the mob's operations, allowing hoodlums to spot police surveillance cars and easing the job of lookouts during organized burglaries.

Police found the three-page handwritten list when Bills was arrested Dec. 18 after he was stopped for a traffic violation in Northfield and it was determined traffic warrants were outstanding against him in Northbrook and Mount Prospect.

The Police Department has been conducting an investigation to determine who leaked the top-secret list to Bills, a known burglar specializing in jewel thefts and a skilled cartage thief.

The leaker has yet to be identified. But because the list is no longer secret, new license plates are to be placed on all 200 Chicago police cars used for undercover assignments and an effort will be made to switch and disguise cars.

Jarrett, LaPietra's chauffeur and aide, has a long history of arrests, including one in 1964 for inciting a riot near the late Mayor Richard J. Daley's Bridgeport home when two blacks moved into the area.

JARRETT, 36, ALSO was arrested with Bills in the theft of $250,000 worth of drugs. His rise to a top position with LaPietra has paralleled LaPietra's own recent ascension to third in power in the syndicate, under Anthony J. Accardo and Joseph Aiuppa.

LaPietra, at the time of his elevation, moved from the suburbs to a high-fenced home at 30th and Princeton in the southern tip of the 1st Ward, which includes Chinatown and is also part of his personal fiefdom.

The probe into underworld use of the purloined list began after Police Supt. Richard Brzeczek's shakeup of the police administration in April, sources said. Previously, the department's efforts concentrated only on a search for the source of the leak.

On the distribution list of the license numbers, informants told police, was another criminal confederate of Bills and Jarrett, Paul DiCaro.

DiCaro, 39, has an extensive arrest record for burglary and was arrested in connection with a $3 million heist of the Canon camera company.

He is the nephew of Charles "Specks" DiCaro, a crime syndicate figure questioned by police in several gangland murders and who has a national reputation as a cartage thief.

Plugs missing from cop garage; probe begun

AN INTERNAL investigation has been begun into what is believed to be the theft of about $8,000 worth of spark plugs from a garage in the Chicago Police Department's Motor Maintenance and Electronics Division, it was learned Saturday.

Matt Rodriguez, deputy police superintendent for technical services, who supervises the scandal-scarred division, confirmed Saturday the disappearance of up to 10,000 spark plugs costing about 80 cents each sometime between mid-April and mid-May.

Rodriguez said the items were stored in a supply room at 5219 S. Wentworth Av. Only authorized personnel had access to the room, he said.

"There is a continuous internal investigation going on in and around that division," Rodriguez said. "The criminal investigation division also is involved. In this particular situation, we're talking about an actual theft. There are no signs of a burglary, or anyone coming in from outside. This is not simply pilferage. It's out and out theft, grand theft."

THE SPARK plugs were removed sometime during the period when the regular officer in charge was away at a special police school for investigators. Police are working on the suspicion that the plugs were removed in small quantities.

Moreover, Rodriguez confirmed, "There are several current internal affairs investigations going on [in Motor Maintenance]," and "adequate controls to prevent such thefts never existed. That's what we're setting up," he said.

During the last year, investigations of the Motor Maintenance Division have centered on unneeded repair costs, repairs that were billed but never done, missing squad cars, unnecessary purchases, and missing supplies and equipment. Some estimates indicate the city may have been cheated out of $10 million in the past five years.

[redacted] Proprietor, Orange Blossom Jewelry Store, 9530 South Cicero Avenue, Oak Lawn, Illinois, was interviewed by SA [redacted] in reference to the merchandise stolen during the armed robbery of his business on December 15, 1977.

Reference was made to a claim report prepared by Toplis and Harding, Inc., on March 10, 1978 wherein an inventory audit was conducted to substantiate his claim of stolen merchandise. Specifically, [redacted] was asked to produce the original shipping documents which he provided the Toplis and Harding, Inc., adjustor in order to substantiate his claim.

After searching his files, [redacted] stated that he had inadvertently misplaced these invoices and that his entire business records would have to be searched in order to locate these documents.

[redacted] was then asked to review the claim statement he made after the robbery in order to determine the merchandise which was received from interstate shipments.

[redacted] through his recollections, then provided the following information in regard to this claim:

Merchandise	Verified Loss	Local or Interstate Shipment
14 loose diamonds	$ 4,854.85	local-possibly some interstate
1 tray (30 ladies cocktail rings)	5,808.	local
1 tray (2- gents diamond rings)	4,286.10	interstate
16 customers diamond jewelry and rings	7,411.98	local
12 assorted Yag stones	90.	local

CG 183-891

Merchandise	Verified Loss	Local or Interstate Shipment
18 gold wedding rings	$ 765.	interstate
1 lady's diamond and emerald ring	470.	interstate
1 lady's diamond and sapphire ring	675.	local
3 gents diamond rings	1,490.	interstate
3 ladies watches	232.50	interstate
4 diamond pendants and earrings	1,430.	interstate
3 diamond tie tacs	176.25	interstate
4 gents watches	274.23	interstate
1 tray of ladies rings (14 rings)	2,301.59	local
1 tray of gents rings (7 rings)	2,136.62	local money	2,643.18	local

The following is a summary computation of the above claim:

Total verified loss:	$35,045.30
Merchandise of local origin:	25,921.22
Merchandise of interstate origin:	9,124.08

After reviewing the above computation, [] stated that he was under the opinion that the dollar amount of merchandise of interstate origin should be more than $9,124.08. [] added that perhaps a portion of the 14 loose diamonds was received from interstate sources which in turn, would increase the dollar amount of interstate merchandise.

b6

At the conclusion of the interview, [] stated that he would initiate a more thorough search of his files in order to locate the original documents in which he used to substantiate the above claim.
